

Connect Teaching School Alliance act as the designated Appropriate Body for NQTs and as such, has the main quality assurance role within the induction process for local schools. Connect TSA registered NQTs will benefit from networking within a local cluster to share experiences and practice through their induction year.

NEWLY QUALIFIED TEACHERS

NQT's 'Flying Start' programme

A personalised and cohesive programme to help our NQTs get off to a 'Flying Start' which supports mentors as well as teachers to prepare them for the year ahead, in their setting, for their children.

Successful induction is the first step into a successful career and the support given in this year either in the classroom or the staffroom is pivotal to the longevity of a thriving teacher. Our successful NQT induction is in it's fourth year with a growing reputation in our locality. An initial induction for both mentor and NQT to share processes, expectations and models of practice gets everyone off to a flying start.

Beyond this basic induction we offer a series of training sessions designed to share best practice, latest thinking and robust training to enhance classroom strategies, supporting progress for all. We want our teachers and our children to both be off to a flying start in their new academic year.

This year we are working with the Chartered College of Teaching to link to the benefits of their Early Career Support.
